

PromptCrucible

FREE PROMPT PACK

10 AI Prompts That Actually Work

A free sample from the full PromptCrucible Solopreneur AI Prompt Pack.
No fluff. No filler. Just prompts you can use today.

INSIDE THIS PACK

- ◆ Marketing & Copywriting
- ◆ Content Creation
- ◆ Business Operations
- ◆ Strategy & Growth
- ◆ Sales & Client Work

WANT ALL 60 PROMPTS?

60 prompts across 5 categories.
Marketing, content, ops, sales, strategy.

PromptCrucible

Prompts built for people
building alone.

How to use these prompts

Every prompt contains [BRACKETS] — replace these with your specific details before running the prompt. The more context you add, the better the output. These work with Claude, ChatGPT, or any capable AI model.

EXAMPLE

Prompt #1 — Cold Email. Replace [target recipient] with 'a Shopify app founder'. Replace [reason for contact] with 'partnering on an AI content system for e-commerce sellers'. Run it. Edit for your voice. Done.

Cold Email — First Contact

BEST FOR: Outreach, partnerships, sales

Write a cold email to [target recipient] about [reason for contact]. Requirements: subject line under 6 words, opening line references something specific about them — use a [SPECIFIC DETAIL] placeholder, value statement in one sentence, a single specific ask as the CTA, total email under 120 words. No 'I hope this email finds you well.' No fake compliments. Get to the point immediately.

■ PRO The [SPECIFIC DETAIL] in line one is the difference between a reply and a delete. Generic cold emails get under 1% reply rates.

TIP:

PROMPT #01 OF 10

Sales Page Opening Hook

BEST FOR: Landing pages, product launches

Write a powerful opening hook for a sales page selling [product] to [target audience]. The hook must identify a painful problem they face daily, create an emotional connection, and make them feel understood — before any pitch. Keep it under 60 words. Be direct, not clever. Do not start with 'Are you tired of...' or any cliché opener.

■ PRO Test 3 hooks simultaneously — one fear-based, one aspiration-based, one curiosity-based. The winner is always the one you least expect.

TIP:

PROMPT #02 OF 10

Content Repurposing System

BEST FOR: All platforms — one piece becomes many

I have a [blog post / newsletter / video transcript] about [topic]. Repurpose it into: (1) a 10-tweet X/Twitter thread, (2) a LinkedIn post under 250 words, (3) three Instagram caption options — short 50 words, medium 100 words, long 150 words, (4) a 60-second video script. Preserve the core message. Adjust tone for each platform. Original content: [PASTE HERE]

■ PRO One piece of original thinking becomes 4 pieces of distributed content. Do this every week and you never run out of material.

TIP:

PROMPT #03 OF 10

Weekly Business Review — 10 Questions

BEST FOR: Productivity, planning, accountability

Create a weekly review system for a solopreneur. Give me 10 specific questions I answer every Sunday in under 30 minutes. The questions must cover: what was completed vs planned and why any gap exists, revenue and the one metric that matters most this week, what worked well and why so it can be repeated, what needs to change and one specific action to change it, and the top 3 priorities for the coming week ranked by impact.

■ PRO Do your weekly review at the same time every week without exception. Consistency makes it
TIP: automatic and the insights compound over time.

PROMPT #04 OF 10

Competitor Gap Finder

BEST FOR: Market research, product positioning

Analyse the competitive landscape for [product type or market]. For each of the top 3 competitors — [list them] — identify: what they offer and at what price, who their ideal customer actually is, their main marketing channels, what customers love most about them, and what customers complain about most. Then tell me: the underserved segment in this market, the specific angle I can win on, and 3 things I should deliberately not copy.

■ PRO Your competitor's 1-star and 2-star reviews are the most valuable product research available. Read
TIP: every single one before building anything.

PROMPT #05 OF 10

One-Sentence Value Proposition

BEST FOR: Websites, pitches, bios, ads

Write a single-sentence value proposition for [business or product] answering: who it helps, what problem it solves, and what makes it different. Use this format: 'I help [who] achieve [what outcome] without [common frustration].' Give me 5 variations ranging from formal to casual. My product: [describe in 2 sentences].

■ PRO Use the exact words your customers use to describe their problem — not the words you use
TIP: internally. Pull language from reviews of similar products.

PROMPT #06 OF 10

30-Day Content Calendar

BEST FOR: Content planning, social media

Build a 30-day content calendar for [brand or topic] publishing on [platforms]. Themes to rotate: [theme 1], [theme 2], [theme 3]. For each of the 30 days include: the content theme, the specific angle or hook, the format — post, thread, carousel, or story, and a one-line description of what it covers. Aim for this mix: 40% educational, 30% engaging, 20% social proof, 10% promotional.

■ PRO Plan 30 days at once in a single session. Batch-create the actual content in one more session. You now have a full month handled.

PROMPT #07 OF 10

Business Idea Validation

BEST FOR: Idea testing, new ventures

Validate this business idea: [describe the idea in 3-4 sentences]. Run it through 5 tests and give a clear pass or fail for each: (1) Problem Test — is the problem real, frequent, and painful enough that people actively seek solutions? (2) Market Test — who specifically has this problem and how large is that group? (3) Solution Test — does my approach solve it better than current alternatives? (4) Business Model Test — is there a clear path to revenue? (5) Founder Test — do I have an advantage in building this? Close with a verdict: proceed, pivot, or stop.

■ PRO Talk to 10 potential customers before building anything. Their exact words — especially their hesitations — are worth more than any market analysis.

PROMPT #08 OF 10

LinkedIn Authority Post

BEST FOR: LinkedIn — build credibility without showing off

Write a LinkedIn post positioning me as a credible voice in [field] based on this insight or experience: [describe the insight or story]. Requirements: bold opening line — no 'I'm excited to share', main content in 4-6 short punchy lines, a short paragraph that deepens the key idea, 3 takeaways formatted as a clean list, a closing question that generates comments. Under 250 words. Maximum 2 hashtags.

■ PRO The closing question drives the algorithm. Make it specific — 'Which of these 3 do you struggle with most?' not 'What do you think?'

PROMPT #09 OF 10

Pricing Strategy — Full Analysis

BEST FOR: Revenue, pricing, positioning

Help me build a pricing strategy for [product or service]. Current price: $[price] or 'not yet launched'. Analyse: (1) what it costs to deliver, (2) how competitors price comparable offerings, (3) the gap between perceived value and actual value and how to close it, (4) ideal price points for 3 buyer segments — budget, value-focused, and premium, (5) which pricing model fits best — one-time, subscription, tiered, or bundled. Close with a specific price recommendation and clear reasoning.

■ PRO

TIP:

Price based on the outcome you create, not the hours you spend. Most solopreneurs are underpriced by 40-60% of what the market would actually pay.

PROMPT #10 OF 10

That's your 10 free prompts.

If even one of these saved you time or improved your output today, the full pack has 50 more — all built to the same standard.

What's in the full 60-prompt pack:

15 Marketing & Copywriting · 15 Content Creation · 12 Business Operations · 8 Sales & Client Work · 10 Strategy & Growth

GET THE FULL PACK

60 prompts · 5 categories · $27 · Instant download

promptcrucible.gumroad.com

PromptCrucible

Prompts built for people building alone.

How to use these prompts

Every prompt contains [BRACKETS] — replace these with your specific details before running the prompt. The more context you add, the better the output. These work with Claude, ChatGPT, or any capable AI model.

EXAMPLE

Prompt #1 — Cold Email. Replace [target recipient] with 'a Shopify app founder'. Replace [reason for contact] with 'partnering on an AI content system for e-commerce sellers'. Run it. Edit for your voice. Done.

Cold Email — First Contact

BEST FOR: Outreach, partnerships, sales

Write a cold email to [target recipient] about [reason for contact]. Requirements: subject line under 6 words, opening line references something specific about them — use a [SPECIFIC DETAIL] placeholder, value statement in one sentence, a single specific ask as the CTA, total email under 120 words. No 'I hope this email finds you well.' No fake compliments. Get to the point immediately.

■ PRO The [SPECIFIC DETAIL] in line one is the difference between a reply and a delete. Generic cold emails get under 1% reply rates.

TIP:

PROMPT #01 OF 10

Sales Page Opening Hook

BEST FOR: Landing pages, product launches

Write a powerful opening hook for a sales page selling [product] to [target audience]. The hook must identify a painful problem they face daily, create an emotional connection, and make them feel understood — before any pitch. Keep it under 60 words. Be direct, not clever. Do not start with 'Are you tired of...' or any cliché opener.

■ PRO Test 3 hooks simultaneously — one fear-based, one aspiration-based, one curiosity-based. The winner is always the one you least expect.

TIP:

PROMPT #02 OF 10

Content Repurposing System

BEST FOR: All platforms — one piece becomes many

I have a [blog post / newsletter / video transcript] about [topic]. Repurpose it into: (1) a 10-tweet X/Twitter thread, (2) a LinkedIn post under 250 words, (3) three Instagram caption options — short 50 words, medium 100 words, long 150 words, (4) a 60-second video script. Preserve the core message. Adjust tone for each platform. Original content: [PASTE HERE]

■ PRO One piece of original thinking becomes 4 pieces of distributed content. Do this every week and you never run out of material.

TIP:

PROMPT #03 OF 10

Weekly Business Review — 10 Questions

BEST FOR: Productivity, planning, accountability

Create a weekly review system for a solopreneur. Give me 10 specific questions I answer every Sunday in under 30 minutes. The questions must cover: what was completed vs planned and why any gap exists, revenue and the one metric that matters most this week, what worked well and why so it can be repeated, what needs to change and one specific action to change it, and the top 3 priorities for the coming week ranked by impact.

■ PRO Do your weekly review at the same time every week without exception. Consistency makes it
TIP: automatic and the insights compound over time.

PROMPT #04 OF 10

Competitor Gap Finder

BEST FOR: Market research, product positioning

Analyse the competitive landscape for [product type or market]. For each of the top 3 competitors — [list them] — identify: what they offer and at what price, who their ideal customer actually is, their main marketing channels, what customers love most about them, and what customers complain about most. Then tell me: the underserved segment in this market, the specific angle I can win on, and 3 things I should deliberately not copy.

■ PRO Your competitor's 1-star and 2-star reviews are the most valuable product research available. Read
TIP: every single one before building anything.

PROMPT #05 OF 10

One-Sentence Value Proposition

BEST FOR: Websites, pitches, bios, ads

Write a single-sentence value proposition for [business or product] answering: who it helps, what problem it solves, and what makes it different. Use this format: 'I help [who] achieve [what outcome] without [common frustration].' Give me 5 variations ranging from formal to casual. My product: [describe in 2 sentences].

■ PRO Use the exact words your customers use to describe their problem — not the words you use
TIP: internally. Pull language from reviews of similar products.

PROMPT #06 OF 10

30-Day Content Calendar

BEST FOR: Content planning, social media

Build a 30-day content calendar for [brand or topic] publishing on [platforms]. Themes to rotate: [theme 1], [theme 2], [theme 3]. For each of the 30 days include: the content theme, the specific angle or hook, the format — post, thread, carousel, or story, and a one-line description of what it covers. Aim for this mix: 40% educational, 30% engaging, 20% social proof, 10% promotional.

■ PRO Plan 30 days at once in a single session. Batch-create the actual content in one more session. You now have a full month handled.

PROMPT #07 OF 10

Business Idea Validation

BEST FOR: Idea testing, new ventures

Validate this business idea: [describe the idea in 3-4 sentences]. Run it through 5 tests and give a clear pass or fail for each: (1) Problem Test — is the problem real, frequent, and painful enough that people actively seek solutions? (2) Market Test — who specifically has this problem and how large is that group? (3) Solution Test — does my approach solve it better than current alternatives? (4) Business Model Test — is there a clear path to revenue? (5) Founder Test — do I have an advantage in building this? Close with a verdict: proceed, pivot, or stop.

■ PRO Talk to 10 potential customers before building anything. Their exact words — especially their hesitations — are worth more than any market analysis.

PROMPT #08 OF 10

LinkedIn Authority Post

BEST FOR: LinkedIn — build credibility without showing off

Write a LinkedIn post positioning me as a credible voice in [field] based on this insight or experience: [describe the insight or story]. Requirements: bold opening line — no 'I'm excited to share', main content in 4-6 short punchy lines, a short paragraph that deepens the key idea, 3 takeaways formatted as a clean list, a closing question that generates comments. Under 250 words. Maximum 2 hashtags.

■ PRO The closing question drives the algorithm. Make it specific — 'Which of these 3 do you struggle with most?' not 'What do you think?'

PROMPT #09 OF 10

Pricing Strategy — Full Analysis

BEST FOR: Revenue, pricing, positioning

Help me build a pricing strategy for [product or service]. Current price: $[price] or 'not yet launched'. Analyse: (1) what it costs to deliver, (2) how competitors price comparable offerings, (3) the gap between perceived value and actual value and how to close it, (4) ideal price points for 3 buyer segments — budget, value-focused, and premium, (5) which pricing model fits best — one-time, subscription, tiered, or bundled. Close with a specific price recommendation and clear reasoning.

■ PRO TIP: Price based on the outcome you create, not the hours you spend. Most solopreneurs are underpriced by 40-60% of what the market would actually pay.

PROMPT #10 OF 10

That's your 10 free prompts.

If even one of these saved you time or improved your output today, the full pack has 50 more — all built to the same standard.

What's in the full 60-prompt pack:

15 Marketing & Copywriting · 15 Content Creation · 12 Business Operations · 8 Sales & Client Work · 10 Strategy & Growth

GET THE FULL PACK

60 prompts · 5 categories · $27 · Instant download

promptcrucible.gumroad.com

PromptCrucible

Prompts built for people building alone.